2014 has been an incredible year for the LGBTQ community... and for PFLAG. We’re entering a new era of equality, where our loved ones’ enduring relationships are being legally recognized, offering new protections for families anywhere.

And yet, as the sprint towards full national marriage equality nears the finish line, there is so much more that needs to be done...and that’s when PFLAGers really kick into high gear. They roll up their sleeves and dig in deep to move equality forward—and push for full societal affirmation—classrooms, boardrooms, locker rooms, and of course, living rooms in communities across the country.

Tonight, as we prepare to do this work together, moving towards a streamlined mission and vision that reflects these values and a name that truly reflects the inclusive organization we have been for decades, let’s also take a look back at just a few of our incredible accomplishments.

Connecting PFLAG with the World

We took PFLAG’s unique and powerful approach farther than ever before, to places like Cape Town, Johannesburg, Pretoria and Soweto in South Africa and Guangzhou in mainland China. Why PFLAG? Because people worldwide know that the PFLAG model successfully crosses borders of race, faith, culture, and language.

A Note to My Kid—a project of PFLAG National—gives the parents, families friends, and allies of the LGBTQ community the opportunity to share their unconditional love, via notes, photos, and videos.
